

Chester Archaeological Society Conference October 18th & 19th 2019

The second annual Chester Archaeological Society Conference will be organised on Friday evening 18th October and all day, Saturday, 19th October 2019. It is a revival of the annual County Conference, and this is an Anniversary year for The Chester Archaeology Soc., founded in 1849, as the Chester & North Wales Historical, Architectural and Archaeological Society. So, the programme will look back at some of the major themes and projects undertaken by the Society over the last 170 years, as well as forward. The built landscape of the city was changing in the middle of the 19th c., as the population dramatically increased, and of course Chester's Heritage is still a contentious issue today, as site developments take place.

Programme details and contribution summaries will be circulated to conference attendees - find updates on the CAS website: www.chesterarchaeolsoc.org.uk. Let us have your details and direct enquiries to: Cllr Janet Axworthy, CAS Chairman: janet.axworthy@flintshire.gov.uk As last year, the conference will be based in the Lecture Theatre of the Grosvenor Museum, so places are limited; the fee is £18 p.p. Entrance by reservation only . Please make cheques payable to: Chester Archaeological Society and forward to Mr Ian Candlin, CAS Treasurer, 6 Fox Lane, Waverton, Chester CH3 7PQ
