

Beneath the Ridge: Cave research.

The Sandstone Ridge Trust are continuing with their survey of caves, shelters and mine shafts and would welcome any help in attaching names to locations and receiving any stories or folk memories associated with them. Their attention has turned recently to occasional post-medieval inhabitants of the caves: in particular, sand-gatherers and people described in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as “gypsies”. The Trust would appreciate any leads that can help to expand knowledge of these mostly invisible inhabitants of the Ridge.

There are many articles concerning the Trust’s findings to be seen on their website:

<http://www.sandstoneridge.org.uk>. Just click on Beneath the Ridge to see what they have been doing. Any information or offers of assistance should be addressed to:

info@sandstoneridge.org.uk.

Gypsy’s Hole in Overton Scar near Malpas

Gypsy’s Cave in Musket Hole